Legal Aid to test staff model pilot in family law

In this issue:

- Mandatory CLE
- Bar admission review
- Professional advisory
- Equity extended
- E&O levy increase

Law Society benchers adopted a proposal put forward by the Attorney General's Ministry and endorsed by the Legal Aid Plan to open a family law staff office on an experimental basis in a major urban centre in Ontario. The vote was 24 to 7 in favour of establishing an office to provide family law services such as divorce, custody, access, support and division of property which are currently provided under the certificate system, also known as judicare.

During the course of the three-year pilot, the Legal Aid Plan will evaluate whether staff delivery of family law services meets pre-determined quality-control standards. The Plan will also assess the staff model's cost-effectiveness and whether it can ease the access problems experienced by some family law clients trying to retain family law services on a certificate in large cities.

The full-service pilot will employ a staff of 14 with an annual operating budget of $840,000.

An additional family law pilot, known as the limited-service model, will run in the Toronto area and will provide services exclusively in non-contentious, paper-intensive areas of family law such as uncontested divorces and adoptions. The limited-service model will employ a staff of 10 on a $600,000 annual budget.

While extending the green light to the staff model pilot, benchers rejected by a vote of 19 to 12, a proposal to establish a women's family law centre which would offer a full-range of family law services in addition to various community support services such as counselling and translation.

The proposed women's only pilot, estimated to cost either $665,000 or $1.35 million depending upon its location, was turned down because benchers could not find sufficient grounds for delivering these services on a gender basis.

Annual filing reminder

Members are reminded to complete their 1993 annual filing forms which were included in the Law Society's October 1993 mailing to the profession and return them as soon as possible. If you did not receive your annual filing forms or have misplaced them, please contact the Audit Department for additional copies at (416) 947-3393.

Mandatory CLE to be explored

The Law Society will begin exploring the feasibility of introducing mandatory continuing legal education (MCLE) in Ontario. Benchers have approved in principle the concept of MCLE and will consider the funding of a design project when the Law Society debates its fiscal 1995 budget next spring. The design project is expected to cost approximately $200,000.

A design team reporting to an MCLE committee comprised of representatives from the Law Society, CBA(O) and the County & Districts Law Presidents' Association will propose a suitable curriculum that will meet the related objectives of ensuring competence and reducing errors and omissions claims. In addition to outlining the implementation costs, the design team will also recommend a strategy for the delivery of MCLE province-wide. The design project is expected to take 12-18 months once budgetary approval is granted.

The State of Minnesota was the first North American jurisdiction to introduce MCLE in 1975 and over 30 U.S. state bar associations currently operate MCLE programs. In a number of jurisdictions, for example Massachusetts and Florida, the cost of negligence insurance has been reduced as a result of the introduction of MCLE programs. Currently, no Canadian law society offers MCLE.

Bar admission course under review

Just three years following a major overhaul, the bar admission course is being re-evaluated by a legal edu-

Professional Advisory

Members are advised to take note of the following matters which have been considered by the Professional Conduct Committee and the Society's Finance Department:

Assignment of Accounts Receivable—Client Confidentiality

In order to protect client confidentiality, lawyers whose accounts receivable are assigned are not permitted to disclose client names unless they are ordered to do so by a court or they have obtained their clients' consent to do so. Members are advised to refer to Professional Conduct Rule 4 for further information regarding client confidentiality matters.

Division of Fees

Law firms that retain lawyers on a contractual basis or through agencies are reminded that clients must consent to any fee arrangement which involves grossing up fees for services performed by a lawyer who is not a partner or associate of the firm and who bills the firm at a rate below that which the firm then invoices the client.

In addition to obtaining the client's consent for this fee arrangement, the firm must also ensure that it assumes full responsibility for the work performed by the contracting lawyer. Members are asked to refer to Professional Conduct Rule 9(b) on the matter of division of fees.

GST and Disbursements

The Law Society has received a number of inquiries from lawyers regarding GST audits, proposed and actual assessments by Revenue Canada, Excise. The inquiries have focused on whether lawyers are required to apply GST to disbursements charged to their clients.

The Society has retained counsel on this matter and will be making submissions to Revenue Canada. In the interim, the Society has reached an agreement with Revenue Canada that no GST assessments will be made in respect of disbursements.

Should lawyers encounter difficulties with their local excise office regarding the applicability of GST to disbursements, please contact the Society's Practise Advisory Service at (416) 947-3369.

cation subcommittee to determine its educational- and cost- effectiveness.

The review was prompted by a series of financial setbacks that began in 1991 when the Ontario government decided to withdraw almost $1 million in annual funding for the course. Shortly afterwards, the Law Foundation, a major financial contributor, began to experience sharp declines in revenue due to the recession and falling interest rates. Its contribution to the bar admission course has been considerably reduced as a result. Double-digit tuition increases have been necessary in recent years to raise the approximately $5 million required to offer the course in three Ontario locations—Toronto, Ottawa and London.

Since 1990 the revamped bar admission course has consisted of three phases—the skills-based, small group format teaching terms known as Phases I and III and the Phase II articling term. Tuition for Phases I and III is now $745 and $2,100 per student respectively. The review of the course, expected to be completed by October 1994, will consider alternative options for preparing students for their call to the bar.

Equity mandate extended to gays and lesbians

The mandate of the Law Society's Equity Committee has been extended beyond visible minority groups to include gays and lesbians. The committee endorsed the move in response to recent requests by gay and lesbian students seeking a forum to have their interests represented. Issues related to the under-representation of minority groups in the legal profession is the core focus of the equity committee's work.

Once again this year, Butterworth's, publishers of the weekly Ontario Reports, has awarded $10,000 in bursary funds to be distributed equally among six equity students at Ontario's six law schools.

E&O levy to increase

In response to record high claims costs expected to reach $66 million by the end of December 1993, the errors and omissions levy is set to rise by 28 percent to $2,175 for the first half of 1994 from $1,700 for the last half of 1993. This sum is payable by approximately 95 percent of the membership who fall into the rating category of no claims paid in the past five years. Members could pay up to a high of $9,487.50 for the next six months if they have had four or more claims paid on their behalf in the past five-year period.

Included in the levy is a $250 supplemental fee which is being charged to recoup the deficit in the insurance fund which is now estimated at $45 million. According to current projections, the deficit elimination target is year end 1998.

LEVIES FOR SIX-MONTH PERIOD: JANUARY 1 TO JUNE 30, 1994

RATING CATEGORY	BASE LEVY	SUPPLEMENTAL LEVY	TOTAL LEVY
1) No claims paid past 5 years.	$1,950.00	$225.00	$2,175.00
2) No claims paid past 3 years.	2,437.50	225.00	2,662.50
3) (Eliminated)	—	—	—
4) 1 claim paid past 3 years.	3,180.00	225.00	3,405.00
5) 2 claims paid past 3 years.	4,387.50	225.00	4,612.50
6) 3 claims paid past 4 years.	6,000.00	225.00	6,225.00
