Errors and Omissions insurance program faces major changes

A series of fundamental changes to the Society's errors and omissions insurance program will follow in the wake of a comprehensive task force report adopted by Convocation in October. The task force, chaired by Windsor bencher Harvey Strosberg, was appointed last June to investigate the spiralling deficit in the insurance program and to make recommendations to restore the financial viability of the operation.

The 112-page report — prepared with the assistance of expert actuaries, accountants, counsel, management and insurance consultants retained by the task force — cites a number of disturbing facts and details and warns that “the profession cannot afford to lose precious time. The situation, as this report is intended to show, is critical”.

The report pegs the deficit as at June 30, 1994, at an alarming $154 million—over $30 million more than was originally calculated last spring.

Among the report's findings:

- In addition to funding the $154 million deficit, the Society may be required by Ontario Insurance Commission (OIC) regulations to raise $50 million to satisfy the capital requirements of the insurance program.

Insurance Task Force Chair

- In the past, members received erroneous information about the deficit due to a series of errors in the calculation of deductibles, errors in discounting, miscalculations in payout patterns, adverse development of prior claims, the selection of the low range of the actuaries' projection and the failure to accrue future internal costs of settling claims already incurred. These factors resulted in repeated understatement of the deficit which was further aggravated by under-levying of the profession. The report identifies actuaries, Society personnel and the insurance committee as being responsible for these miscalculations.

- When the Lawyers' Professional Indemnity Company (LPIC) was incorporated in 1990, the Society failed to put an adequate management structure in place. The report notes that “there were no identifiable channels for decision-making and no clear lines of authority”.
- LPIC failed to collect relevant data required to professionally manage

Law Society role statement approved

The Law Society of Upper Canada exists to govern the legal profession in the public interest by:

- ensuring that the people of Ontario are served by lawyers who meet high standards of learning, competence and professional conduct; and
- upholding the independence, integrity and honour of the legal profession; for the purpose of advancing the cause of justice and the rule of law.

its affairs and perform meaningful underwriting functions. Deficiencies in information gathering mean that LPIC is unable to create risk profiles or anticipate trends in claims. "Because of this dearth of information," the report points out, "Convocation has always been constrained to set the current levy on the basis of the incomplete claims experience of the previous year."

- Although LPIC's expenditure of about 35 per cent of its budget on legal fees was within industry standards, it had until very recently no specific policy or guidelines respecting legal costs. Budgeting on a file-by-file basis was not required nor were there any auditing procedures in place to measure fees billed against value for services rendered.

The conclusion of the task force's findings is accompanied by 35 recommendations based on the premise that the Society should continue the errors and omissions program "for the greatest protection of the public and the greatest stability over time for the majority of the Society's membership". Among the principles underlying the continuation of the program are the following:

- LPIC will be operated in a commercially reasonable manner.
- LPIC will not be operated on a "no-fault" compensation basis.
- Some coverage will be limited and some will be eliminated.
- LPIC will move toward a system in which the cost of insurance generally reflects risk. As LPIC collects the necessary information to create risk profiles it will move towards a policy which is tailored more directly to the needs of various types of legal practice.
- LPIC may deny coverage in appropriate circumstances or cancel coverage if deductibles, surcharges, premiums or levies are not paid.

- Solicitors who have been repeatedly negligent may not be able to afford to practise because they will not be able to afford the cost of insurance.

In order to ensure an effective management structure is put into place the task force began a search in September for a new chief executive officer to serve as president of LPIC. As well, LPIC will appoint two new vice-presidents to oversee the finance and operations of the insurance program. The existing position of vice-president of claims will continue.

The following changes to the insurance program were adopted by Convocation:

Levies

1. A supplementary levy of $1,100 will be imposed for 1994. Members called in 1994 will be exempted. The additional levy is required to ensure that the cost of the insurance program for 1994—estimated at $99.5 million—is met without further aggravating the deficit. Without the supplementary levy a $25 million shortfall could ensue.
2. The Society will raise $50 million to capitalize the insurance program by increasing the annual membership fee by $600 for four years beginning in 1995.

All fee-paying members, not only those in private practice, will be required to pay the additional $600 which is not a levy for insurance coverage—it is designed to fund the Society's capital investment in LPIC. All fee-paying members will bear the burden of meeting the capital requirements of this program, just as all members bear the cost of funding the Lawyers Fund for Client Compensation and continue to bear the administrative costs of legal aid through payment of the annual legal aid levy.

3. The 1995 base levy will be $5,600.

Changes in deductibles

4. Beginning in 1995, deductible amounts payable will be increased and members will be required to pay half the deductible once a defence has been filed and the remaining half at the commencement of discoveries. In any event, the deductible is payable if LPIC makes a payment to a third party or if investigation, adjusting, legal or repair expenses are incurred. Payment of deductibles for any of these reasons within the last five years will constitute a claim for the purpose of determining future deductibles. Law firms retained by LPIC will be required to forward copies of accounts to all insured members on whose behalf they are retained.

5. LPIC will take vigorous steps to recover outstanding deductibles and will report to the Society members who fail to meet their financial obligations as required by Rule 13 of the Rules of Professional Conduct. The Society is owed about $8.8 million in deductibles.

6. Solicitors who fail to pay levies, deductibles, surcharges or premiums to LPIC may suffer loss of coverage or cancellation of their policies.

7. Solicitors will be encouraged to defend minor claims on their own subject to the discretion of LPIC.

8. If a claim results from a matter where a solicitor acted for more than one interest, the solicitor will be required to pay the deductible for each interest represented, even if the client(s) waived any conflict. For the purposes of future claims ratings in such cases, the solicitor will be deemed to have had as many claims made as the number of interests represented.

Claims history surcharges

9. The following claims history surcharges will apply for 1995. Surcharges will result only when the claim results in a payment to a third party:

- One claim paid in last five years: $2,500
- Two claims paid in last five years: $5,000
- Three claims paid in last five years: $10,000
- Four claims paid in last five years: $15,000
- Five claims paid in last five years: $25,000
- Six or more claims: $35,000 + $10,000/claim

Vicarious liability: limits and surcharges

10. Vicarious liability coverage, known as innocent partner coverage, (including claims resulting from dishonest, fraudulent, criminal or malicious acts such as misappropriation or misapplication) will be reduced from $1 million to $250,000 and a $10,000 deductible will apply. Lawyers who may be subject to vicarious liability will be required to pay a separate $400 surcharge. It is expected that the surcharge will raise $3.6 million in 1995.

Surcharges: real estate, civil litigation, volume

11. Solicitors will be required to pay a $25 surcharge for each interest they represent in a real estate transaction or civil litigation matter (these terms to be further defined).

Solicitors acting under a legal aid certificate will be exempt from paying surcharges. Currently, real estate accounts for 48 per cent of claims and civil litigation accounts for a further 30 per cent. The two surcharges combined will raise approximately $15 million in 1995.

12. A volume surcharge of 1/4 of 1%

will apply to all solicitors whose gross fee billings exceed $125,000 per year, resulting in payment of $250 on each $100,000 of gross fee billings. If gross billings exceed the $125,000 threshold, surcharges will apply to the first dollar billed. Beginning in 1995, solicitors will be required to file a form with the Society certifying their gross fee billings. It is expected that the volume surcharge will raise $7 million. Premiums for solicitors' professional liability insurance in the United Kingdom are based on gross billings. Other professions, including engineers, follow this practice.

Changes in coverage: uninsured activities

13. Coverage will not be guaranteed in every instance.

14. Coverage will only be extended to solicitors practising the laws of Canada, its provinces and territories.

15. The LPIC policy will be amended to clarify explicitly that mortgage brokering is not an insured activity. Similarly, the 1995 policy will specify that no coverage will apply for services as a director, receiver or any similar fiduciary capacity and that coverage as a trustee will exclude any activity related to mortgage brokerage.

16. If solicitors act in matters for which no insurance exists, that fact must be disclosed in writing to client(s).

Tail premiums to be paid after ceasing practice

17. Members who cease the practice of law after June 30, 1995 will be required to pay "tail" premiums for five years after ceasing private practice.

Tendering for E&O legal work

18. LPIC will develop a tender system and invite tenders from the profession for its legal work.

New rules for lawyers transferring from outside Ontario

In response to the decision of the Quebec Superior Court in Richards v. Barreau du Québec, the Law Society of Upper Canada has amended its rules for lawyers wishing to transfer to Ontario from other Canadian jurisdictions.

The issue in that case was whether the requirement of three years of practice in another Canadian jurisdiction in order to be eligible to transfer to Quebec was unconstitutional.

In accordance with a legal opinion provided to the Society, the requirements have been changed to provide that those wishing to transfer to Ontario must have been engaged in the active practice of law or in a pre-call education program of a member society of the Federation of Law Societies of Canada for 17 months within the three year period immediately preceding their application.

In addition to filing a good standing certificate issued by a member society, transfer applicants must also fulfil good character requirements and pass a transfer examination.

Membership suspensions

A listing of more than 700 members who were suspended on November 1 for failure to pay annual fees is included with this month's Benchers Bulletin.

Members who continue to practise while suspended may be subject to disciplinary action. To be reinstated, suspended members must pay the annual fee, plus a $160.50 (inc. GST) administrative charge, by certified cheque.

Members are also reminded that the deadline for receipt of payment of the E&O levy is December 1 at 5 p.m. Late payment will result in automatic administrative suspension.

Correction

The September 1994 issue of Benchers Bulletin noted that former Thunder Bay bencher Bernard Shaffer was awarded a Law Society medal for his long-standing service to the Ontario legal profession. Due to a typing error, Mr. Shaffer's name was misspelled. The Law Society apologizes and is grateful to Mr. Shaffer's partners for bringing this to our attention.

Roll-call vote

That Rule 12 of the Rules of Professional Conduct dealing with Advertising and Making Legal Services Available be amended by deleting paragraph 7(d) which requires that a lawyer's name be deleted from a firm name upon his/her appointment as a judge or master. Lost 21 to 18 with one abstention.
