To the Graduates

John D. Arnup, Esq., Q.C.

Chairman,

Legal Education

Committee

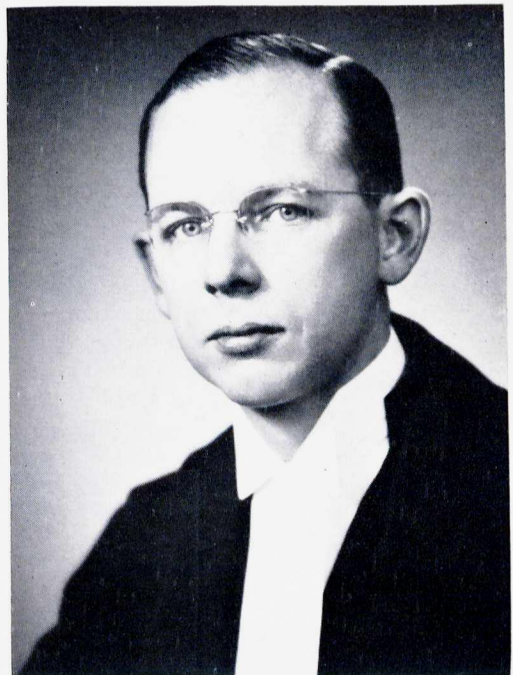

AS Chairman of the Legal Education Committee, I am about to bid this class farewell. As an active member of the bar, I extend to you a warm and friendly welcome.

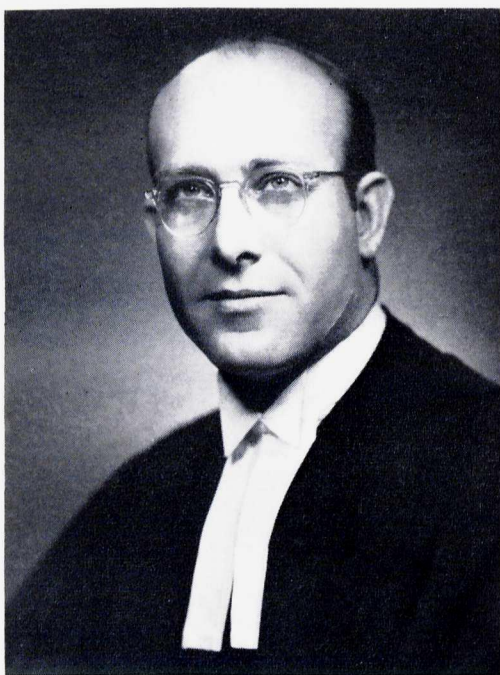

All of you will find, as I have found, that life as a lawyer brings cherished memories—its moments of elation, its hours of hard work, its periods of discouragement. It brings a deep and lasting sense of comradeship with friendly rivals. The kinship of the bar has always been a source of its strength—one seldom understood by those who see the fraternity that follows the conflict.

Above all, it can furnish inner satisfaction—from its sense of accomplishment, from the heartfelt rewards of work well done, whether it be a case stoutly argued, a document well drawn, or a complicated business deal guided safely to its close.

Great traditions are best understood when they have been lived with for a while. The members of our bar are the guardians of its integrity, of its respect for law and those who administer it, and in the long run, they are the guardians of liberty itself. This tradition we now share with you.

May much success and great happiness be yours!

Osgoode Hall Law School

H. Allan Leal,
Esq., Q.C.

If one is to adopt three score and ten as a proper and fitting standard for measurement, one is sobered by the reflection that you in the Graduating Class of '59 have spent a quarter of your lives in formal education and in preparation for the practice of your profession. The time might have been shorter if any of it was wasted but not too long if used gainfully.

The problems which you will be called upon to solve as lawyers in your professional and civic life are as interesting as they are infinitely various. It is a great opportunity, and at the same time a heavy responsibility to go forth into the public service at such a dynamic period in the growth of one's country and profession.

I predict without misgivings that we in Canada are on the threshold of substantial institutional and legal reforms. The signs are unmistakable and the reasons compelling. The history of the Industrial Revolution in England a century ago has an important lesson to teach. It is hoped that you will take your rightful place in the vanguard of these developments.

It has been an honour and a great privilege for me to have had you as my first graduating class. In my experience and with no credit to myself there has never been a better one. I am sure that the faculty and governing body would want to join me in thanking you for the outstanding contribution you have made to this institution.

We wish you every happiness and success in your professional careers.

H. Allan Leal

The Dean Emeritus of Osgoode Hall Law School

C. E. Smalley-Baker,
Esq., Q.C.

“THE old order changeth, yielding place to new.”

This natural course of every living organism has come rather definitely to Osgoode Hall recently—a new Law School building; a new system of Legal Education; and a new Dean.

But “the old dean”—as he has heard himself referred to—is not so ancient or so out of sympathy with student life as not to feel immensely flattered at still being one of those invited to write a “Message” for this new edition of “Charta.”

The Law Society’s provision of a “Dean Emeritus’ Room” in the 1937 building is very greatly appreciated by me and I trust that the work on which I am engaged there will in due time reflect honour on the Society’s kindness. As is natural at this early stage of such a large task, my book—on Comparative Legal History—is progressing rather slowly. Indeed it is still, to some extent, in the stage of preparing the foundations for the intended structure.

I very much miss the happy meetings with you all in the lecture room. But it will always be a pleasure to see new friends as well as old ones in my room, and I hope that I may still be regarded as “one of you” in your social gatherings.

I was greatly touched by the wonderfully kind gifts to me by the “York Volunteers,” the “VIIIth Dragoons” and the “IXth Pioneer Guards,” and by the warm friendship of you all throughout the year.

My “Message” is brief but sincere. My warmest good wishes to you all for your every success and happiness and the very affectionate regards of

Your Dean Emeritus

C. E. Smalley-Baker.

The President of The Legal and Literary Society

THE basic character of a year book is suggested by the adage, "A picture's worth a thousand words." Charta, the year book of Osgoode Hall Law School satisfies this concept admirably for it is an imaginative pictorial history of the student undertakings of the school year. Through the skill of the editor and his staff each page speaks with animated directness of those hours which we enjoyed together in the spirited ventures of student life at The Hall.

As time passes to blur our recollections of school days, Charta will prove its worth when we turn to its pages to refresh our memories; and prove more worthy as it fortifies the rich traditions of the Law Society of Upper Canada in providing a permanent record of those unique student institutions which impart to Osgoode Hall Law School its remarkable character and its strength.

But for the complete and generous support of the Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada which we here acknowledge with gratitude, the publication of this edition would not have been possible.

PETER B. TOBIAS

Editorial

THIS volume marks the occasion of the second publication of CHARTA.

To most of you in your first year at Osgoode it will be something unexpected and unfamiliar — for one can hardly establish a tradition in two years' time. But we hope that you may find some lasting token of enjoyment in it and look forward to CHARTA in future years.

We feel our success was marked by our enthusiastic reception in 1958, and by the interest expressed on the part of the students in the continued publication of CHARTA this year.

Charta moves in most distinguished company — with the old and established Obiter Dicta, and that publication of recent years, our contemporary in existence, the Law Journal; a magazine which has won great distinction within the profession and has also brought great honour to our school.

But, whereas these publications may be generally considered to have a limited area of popular appeal, CHARTA tries to reach across to every student, by providing him with a "pot-pourri" of people, personalities, and events of the year, those things that he may look back upon in future years, and pleasurably reflect on his days in the classroom, his friends at the beginning of their professional life, and his lectures and other early friends in the profession.

Ours is, we admit, a modest undertaking alongside the Law Journal, but we feel that nonetheless it is a worthwhile one, and of a positive value to the students. We measure our success from the response of the students, and we hope that we have achieved a small measure of our undertaking.

No publication or body stands by itself, and CHARTA is greatly indebted to the many persons who helped us through our moments of trial and difficulty. Amongst them number Dean Leal, always a friend in moments of difficulty, the Executive of the Legal and Literary Society, Miss Sturdy and her ever co-operative and patient staff, and Mr. John Glen, our effervescent building superintendent, always ready to lend a helping hand.

Our small but dedicated staff also deserves special merit: Doreen Gelfond, Mary Lou Willis and Lois Barker; and also, a special mention to CHARTA's ubiquitous photographer, Eddie Staworzynski, who had the knack of being at all places at all times, and always with his camera.

To those persons in particular CHARTA extends its heartfelt thanks, and also, generally, we thank the students of Osgoode Hall, whose support and interest made this book a reality.

You Share . . . When People Help People

This is an eventful year for the Canadian Red Cross Society. In 1959 the Canadian Red Cross commemorates 50 years of service and the world observes the hundredth anniversary of the birth of the Red Cross idea.

For a half-century the Canadian Red Cross Society has been a revered organization. In peace and war, in prosperity and depression, its humanitarian record of achievement has become a distinguished chapter in the history of a great and growing Canada.

In cities, towns and villages, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, people have always rallied to help the Red Cross to give their money, their time, their blood, their energy and their talent. Canadians do this with a sense of pride because there is an assurance that the arms of mercy reach to triumph over suffering everywhere.

Year by year there are increasing demands for Red Cross services, programmes and projects to serve citizens in 1,205 of our communities. Whenever and wherever there may be a call for help from nations far beyond our shores the Canadian Red Cross is always on the job, willing to share and to show we care.

The Canadian Red Cross Society serves in so many ways and is truly the work of people helping people across the street, across the nation, and across the world.

IT is with pleasure that this section of Charta is dedicated to the "pioneers" of the rebirth of athletics at Osgoode Hall.

In seven short years, athletics has grown from a hockey team with about twenty participants to a program which includes hockey, basketball, table-tennis, golf, squash and curling, with more than one hundred and fifty students taking part. Perhaps this rather spectacular growth is best explained by the underlying policy of athletics at Osgoode Hall, which was formulated by the "pioneers" and passed to our present Association. Generally speaking, this policy is to emphasize actual participation, good fellowship, and enjoyment of the game rather than spectator participation, the winning of laurels, and other forms of glory. (although Osgoode has had its share in the latter category, we might add). Due to this prevailing policy, athletics at Osgoode Hall provides the student with a casual, friendly atmosphere in which to meet fellow students, students from other schools, members of the staff, and other members of the profession, besides giving his body some much needed exercise.

In taking the risk of serious omission, this year's Association nevertheless wishes to pay tribute to the following gentlemen, who have been instrumental in re-establishing a sports system at Osgoode Hall:

Hamilton Cassells Q.C.,	Claude Fitzgibbon,
P. D. Wilson Q.C.,	David Bernstein,
Dean H. Allen Leal Q.C.,	Francis B. Sutton,
Professor D. B. Spence,	Ted Herman,
A. Bennett,	Jim Jerome,
Joe Kane,	Jack Wheldrake,
R. J. Gray,	Gerald Fitzberry.

For their guidance, enthusiasm and administration during the formative years, the present and future Athletic Associations will always be indebted.

Basketball

THIS year's team started the season in sensational style. Before setting aside our togs for the Xmas exams, the "Owls" defeated such noteworthy foes as Central Y Saints, Toronto Elevators and the Utah Mormon Elders (the latter, being a team in the Metro Senior League). In fact, our only losses were at the hands of Andy's A.C.

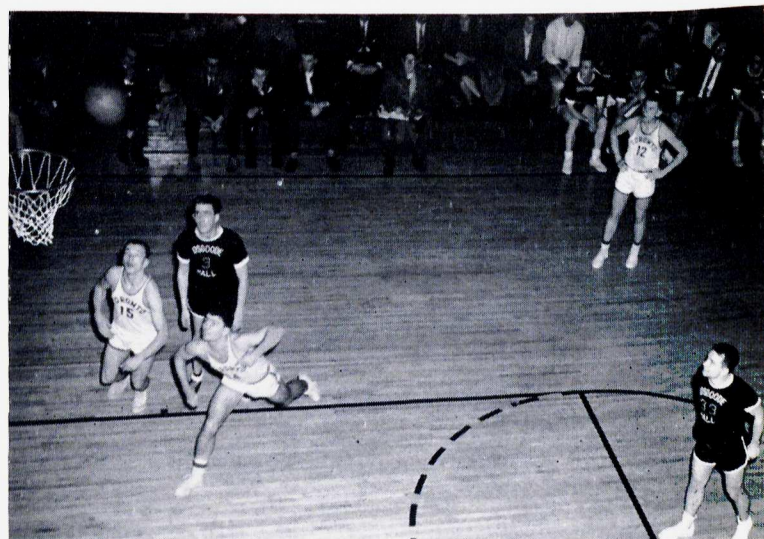

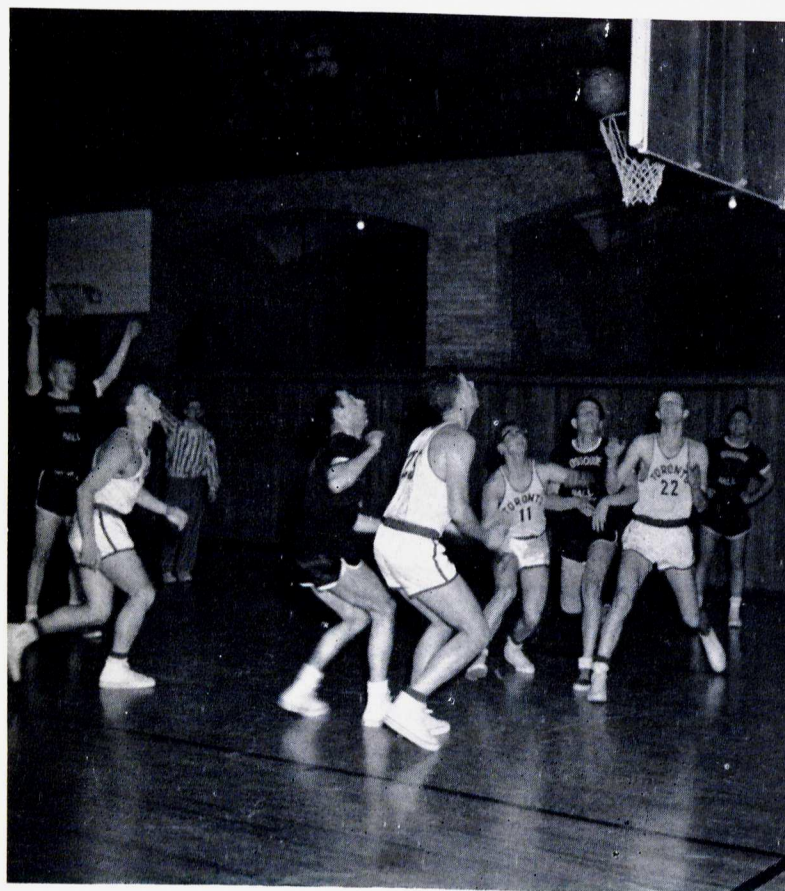

The team stayed in condition during the holiday by playing West End Y Intermediate and Y.M.H.A. Juniors.

Back to the books, and the opening of the league—first game, McMaster. We lost. This game seemed to set the pace all season, until the last effort against the Ryerson Rams, when, Our Boys won in a cake walk 76-52.

Game of the year—Osgoode Hall visited U. of T., with the "Owls" winning by one basket in the last seconds of play 66-64.

Congratulations go to the coach, the two managers, the captain and ten co-captains for a highly-spirited and memorable year.

A special adieu to the forthcoming grads—Norm Dyson (he made us look forward to those out of town games); Ted Sahaidak (the dippy-doodler of basketball); Don Finlayson (always gave the team that added lift); Norm Mintzer (a dependable, consistent team-man) and Jack Pelech (the little fireball that led the team in scoring).

Hockey

THE Osgoode Hockey Team was not as eminently successful during the past season as they have been in former years. However, they did win enough of their games in the Ontario Intercollegiate Athletic Association to finish in third place.

A number of new players were added to the team this year, notably George Whyte, Bob Church and Brian Crane.

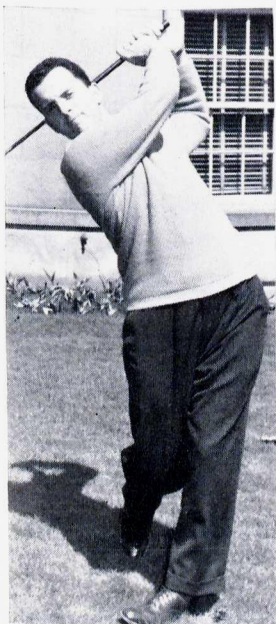

Under the direction of coach Joe Kane the team showed "flashes of greatness" but often failed to polish off enough of their plays around the net. John Goodwin played goal extremely well for his third consecutive season in the nets.

At the present time there is the possibility that next year the League's games may be played at Varsity Arena, and it is hoped that this might be an incentive to boost spectator attendance.

Golf

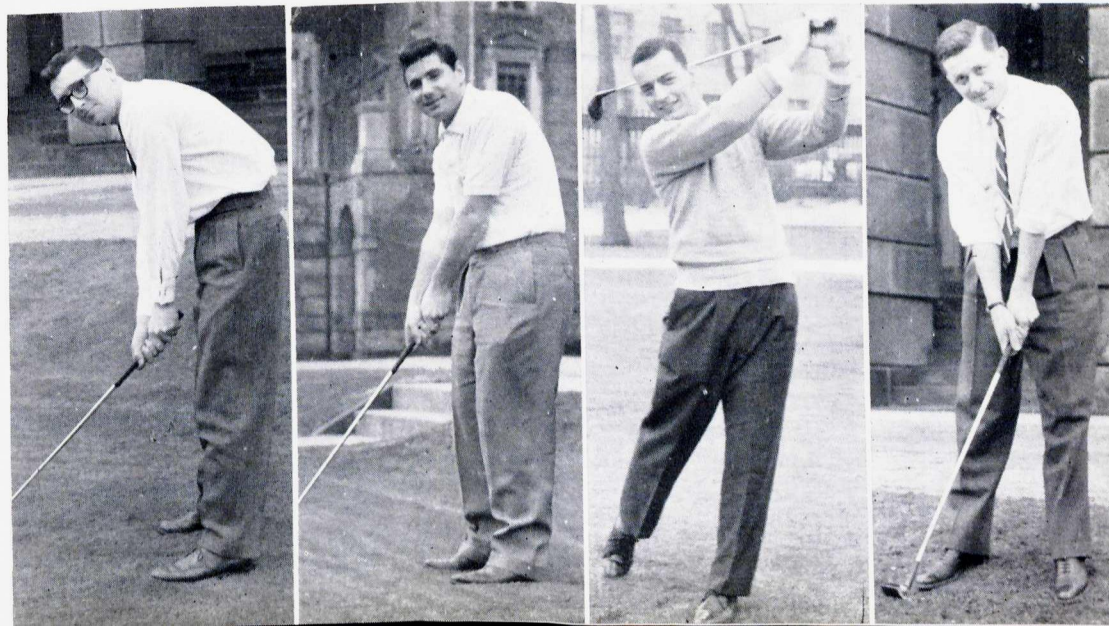

THE Golf Tournament at St. Andrew's Golf and Country Club, at the beginning of October was the opening event of the 1958-59 athletic season at Osgoode Hall.

Some fifty enthusiastic divot diggers turned out to qualify for the five man team which was to represent the school in the Intercollegiate Tournament at Kitchener on Tuesday, the fifteenth of October.

The five low gross players that made the trek to Kitchener in hopes of bringing home the Intercollegiate title were:—Dave Lee, Bob Forsyth, Bernie Gluckstein, Marty Rosen and Bob Pezzack.

Our hopes, however, were not realized as the title went to Waterloo College and our team finished in third place behind Ryerson by a couple shots.

The honours in the low net division went to Ralph Newell of the second year.

Curling

CURLING is becoming one of Osgoode Hall's most popular sports. About 22 students and four members of the staff participated this year in the 14 curling sessions, which began Oct. 23 and ended March 31. Six rinks participated in a competition for the Sterling Trusts Trophy, donated this year by the Sterling Trusts Corporation. The trophy was won by Jack Jenkins (skip), Peter Swan (third), Ross Reilly (second) and Larry Dalton (lead).

In Intercollegiate curling two rinks representing Osgoode Hall in a tankard competition played at the Kitchener Waterloo Granite Club, finished as runner's up in the consolation draw. The two rinks were Jack Jenkins, Peter Swan, Larry Dalton, Ross Reilly; Gordon Littlejohn, Jackson Cherverover, Miles O'Reilly and Frank Johnston.

Next year we hope to double the number of students participating as well as the number of sessions.

Squash

THIS year, for the first time, our Athletic Association ventured into the field of Squash.

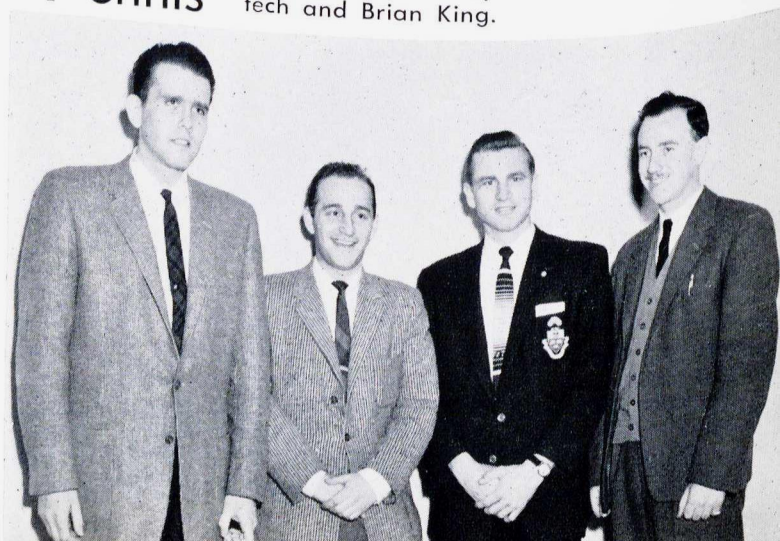

As a result of the efforts of Mr. Hamilton Cassells, our honorary president, and Mr. Bill O'Malley, a sports-minded graduate, our team was able to practise and play its matches at the Carlton Club.

The nine man team was selected from forty keen competitors. In its initial year, the team won only one match out of four. Our last match was against a strong team from the profession which humbled us eight to one. Nevertheless, a very enjoyable time was had by all and we feel that in time youth is bound to overshadow experience. It is hoped that in time this will become an annual match and that the undergrads will have a chance to redeem their shattered honour next year.

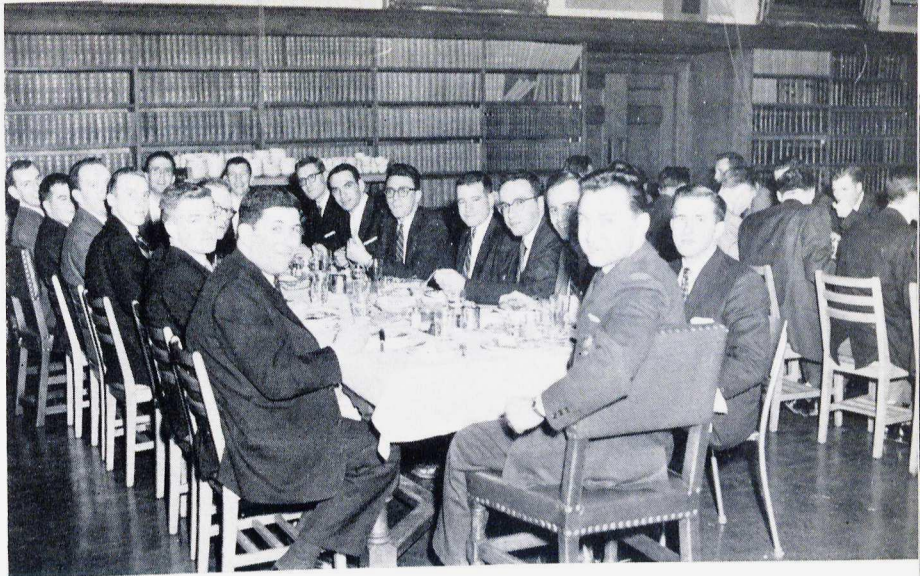

The overall picture has been encouraging and next year we expect to enter the Toronto and District B League and perhaps eventually the Senior Intercollegiate League.

Osgoode Hall at Home

Spring Formal

IF anyone had been looking for legal advice on the evening of Friday, March 6, 1959, a good place to seek it might have been the Royal York Hotel—maybe. On that occasion, the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Justices of the Court of Appeal and of the Supreme and County Courts, Members of the Faculty and Staff of Osgoode Hall Law School, and Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada were guests of the students. All were attired in formal finery, something of a welcome change from the workaday world, and the Spring was greeted in a grandiose manner.

There were many private cocktail parties before, during and after the dance itself, not the least of which was the one given in the new Territories Room by the Legal and Literary Society for their guests and to which the various Committee Chairmen were also invited.

When one o'clock arrived, the Concert Hall was still crowded to capacity and an extension of the dancing to one-thirty was greeted with cheers. It would be a masterpiece of understatement to say that the students and their guests enjoyed themselves—confidentially, it really was a ball!

Osgoode Hall Fall Ball

'T WAS All Hallows Eve
 'Twas Osgoode's Fall Dance;
 Decked were the halls
 With witches 'n things
 'Twas one of those balls
 Where all feet had wings—

The Osgoode Hall Fall Ball will go down in Osgoode history as one of the most sensational and successful social events ever, as all that attended will know. Attendance exceeded even the wildest hopes of an optimistic social committee, so that Convocation Hall and the (decorated) cafeteria were both filled to capacity with dancing law students, faculty and staff members, and their guests.

The decorations were, naturally, based on the Hallowe'en motif, with large supplies of skeletons, witches, black cats and real pumpkins scattered hither thither and yor. Fortune-telling too was part of the evening, and Mrs. Marshall, in suitable costume "told all" to anxious ones. Osgoodians again did themselves proud—'twas indeed a night to remember.

Impromptu Debates

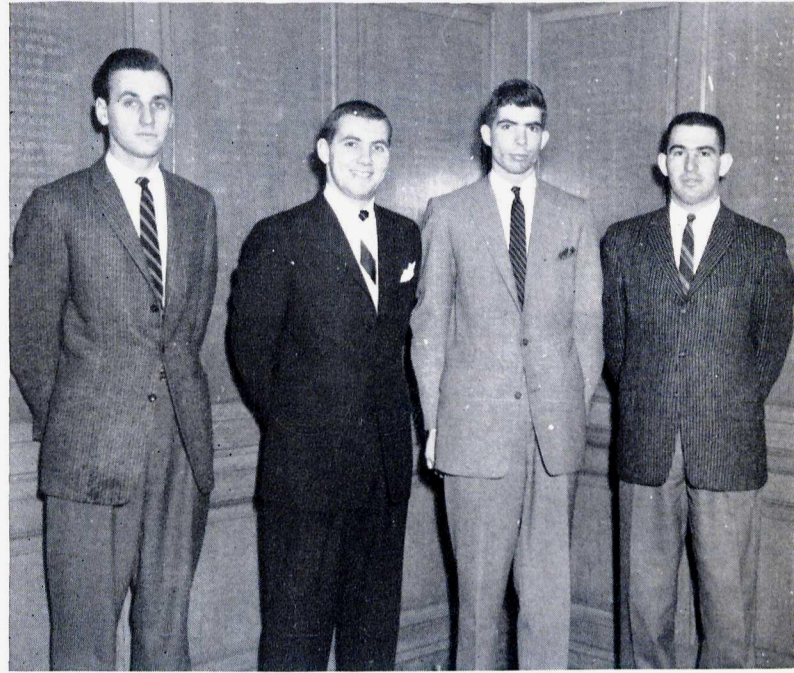

First and Second Year

THE value of the Impromptu Debates was strikingly obvious to all connected with them, as speakers, fortunate enough to advance through two or three rounds, gained more and more poise, self confidence and voice control before an audience and sharpened their ability to think quickly on an unprepared topic thrust upon them.

The number of entrants from first year was perhaps a little disappointing and it meant that with only three elimination rounds a new speaker did not have time to develop his full capabilities. However, despite this, first year produced six or seven promising debaters.

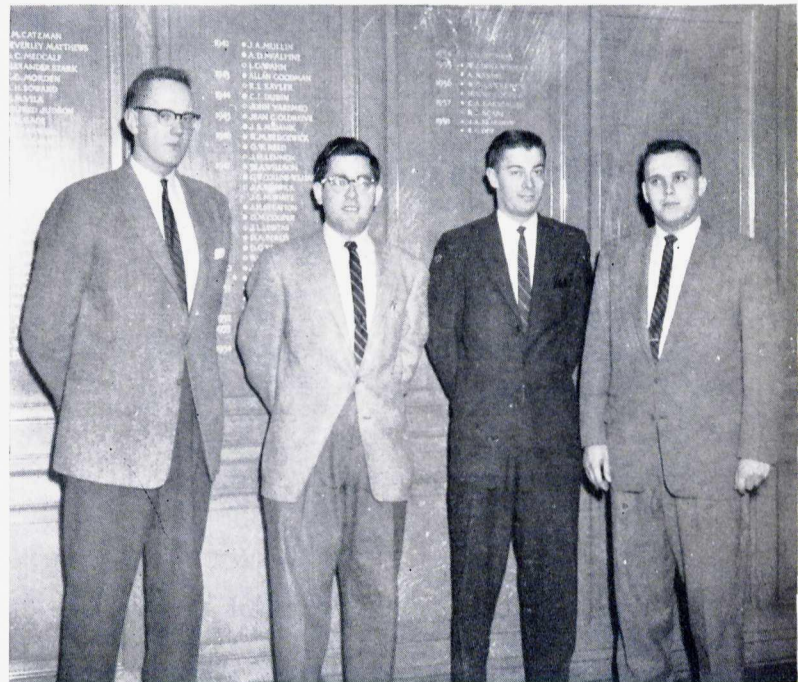

The second year debaters brought with them the confidence of a year's experience. The competition was keen and close with over a dozen excellent orators. The judges, ably led by D. Wilkins, had a difficult time narrowing down the speakers to four finalists, and an even harder time selecting two to represent second year against the "novae". P. Schwartz and S. Leggett were finally chosen over H. Beaudry and G. Scheifle in an extremely close debate on the topic, "Resolved that handsome is as handsome does."

Brian King was chairman of the Impromptu Debates this year, ably assisted, especially in the field of creating topics for the debaters, by John Giesler, Mike Harrison and Miles O'Rielly.

First Year Winners B. Doran and J. Soloway with runners-up E. Madronick and R. Inglis.

Second Year Winners S. Leggett and Phil Schwartz, along with runners-up Grant Scheifle and Hal Beaudry.

MOOT COURTS

- First Year
- Second Year

COURTS are the crucibles of the law. There it is fused and molded to shape by judges and counsel, the craftsmen of justice and order. Together they provide for its evolution.

As students we study this dynamic process but its true implications can only be grasped through actual experience with the vital forces at work. Moot Courts are the answer. Here we are confronted with law in a state of flux. We can try our hand at shaping and tempering it to an extent that may not be possible in practice for some years.

Long ago, students realized the enormous advantages of a system of Moot Courts and thus helped to perpetuate the scheme. At Osgoode Hall the Legal and Literary Society appoints a chairman who in turn appoints a committee. This committee, with the help of interested students who volunteer to be judges, take the competition through the early rounds. Then our Dean takes over. With the help of faculty members and judges of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who very kindly give their time, he takes counsel through the final round and selects two winners from each year.

The Moot Courts this year were judged by Dean Leal and Professor Morton with the assistance of Mr. Justice Stewart for the first year competition, and Mr. Justice Hughes for the second year round.

First year winners were A. J. Levitt and R. V. Wright, the runners-up being Don Synowacki and Roger Ingles. Second year honours were taken by Brian King and Larry Levenstein, second place going to Miles O'Reilly and Don Cosway.

Jackson Chercover, John White
Society Chairman with the Japanese Ambassador and aide.

AS a branch of the Osgoode Hall Legal and Literary Society, the John White Society is dedicated to engendering in students of the law a higher degree of awareness of their social responsibilities as members and potential future leaders of the community. The Society's existence is based on the concept that lawyers must not restrict their lives to the law excluding other facets of everyday experience.

The Society attempts to realize this aim through the medium of addresses to the students by eminent persons on topics not necessarily related to the law.

During its brief, three year life, John White noon hour meetings have become a popular function in student activities, offering speakers on varied topics from psychology to penal reform, from international affairs to comparative constitutions. It has been established practice to carry on informal discussion after the speech, at which time the audience may "put the speaker on the spot" with questions.

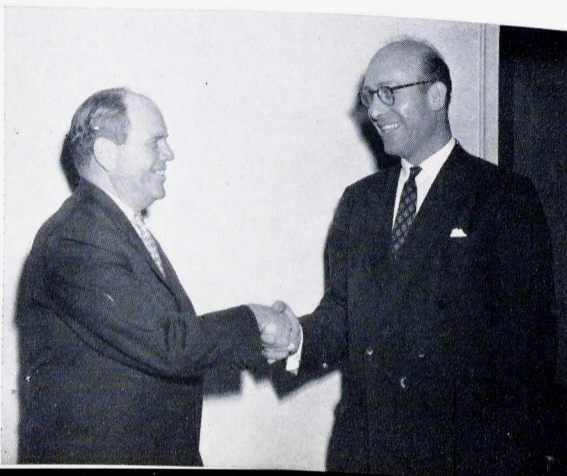

The year 1958-59 saw an interesting extension of the previous year's policy of inviting prominent diplomats to Osgoode to express their views on international affairs and give the students a better understanding of their own countries. General de Gaulle's accession to power was commented on by the French Ambassador as "replacing the worn out engine of the motor car of France."

The Japanese Ambassador explained his country's post war constitution and the United State's Consul-General discussed U.S.-Canadian economic relations. Dr. D. Carleton Williams, one of Canada's leading psychologists emphasized his points on visual phenomena in evidence by confounding the audience with mechanical "optical illusions" to prove that seeing is not believing.

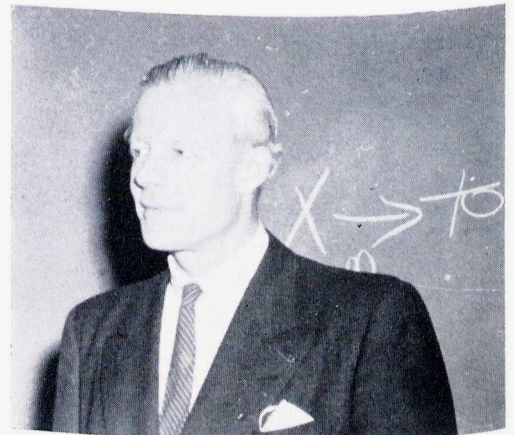

A startling exposition of "China in 1959" was presented by E. B. Joliffe, Q.C., and Warden Joe McCulley of Hart House rounded off the year's events with an informative talk on problems in Canada's penal system.

It would appear that the interest generated in this and previous years will be continued in the coming years to provide thought provoking enjoyment for the lawyers-to-be at Osgoode.

Mock Parliament

HI-JINKS and politics marked this year's Mock Parliament. As in previous years the solemnity and sobriety of the legislature at Queen's Park was invaded by parliamentarians of colourful mien.

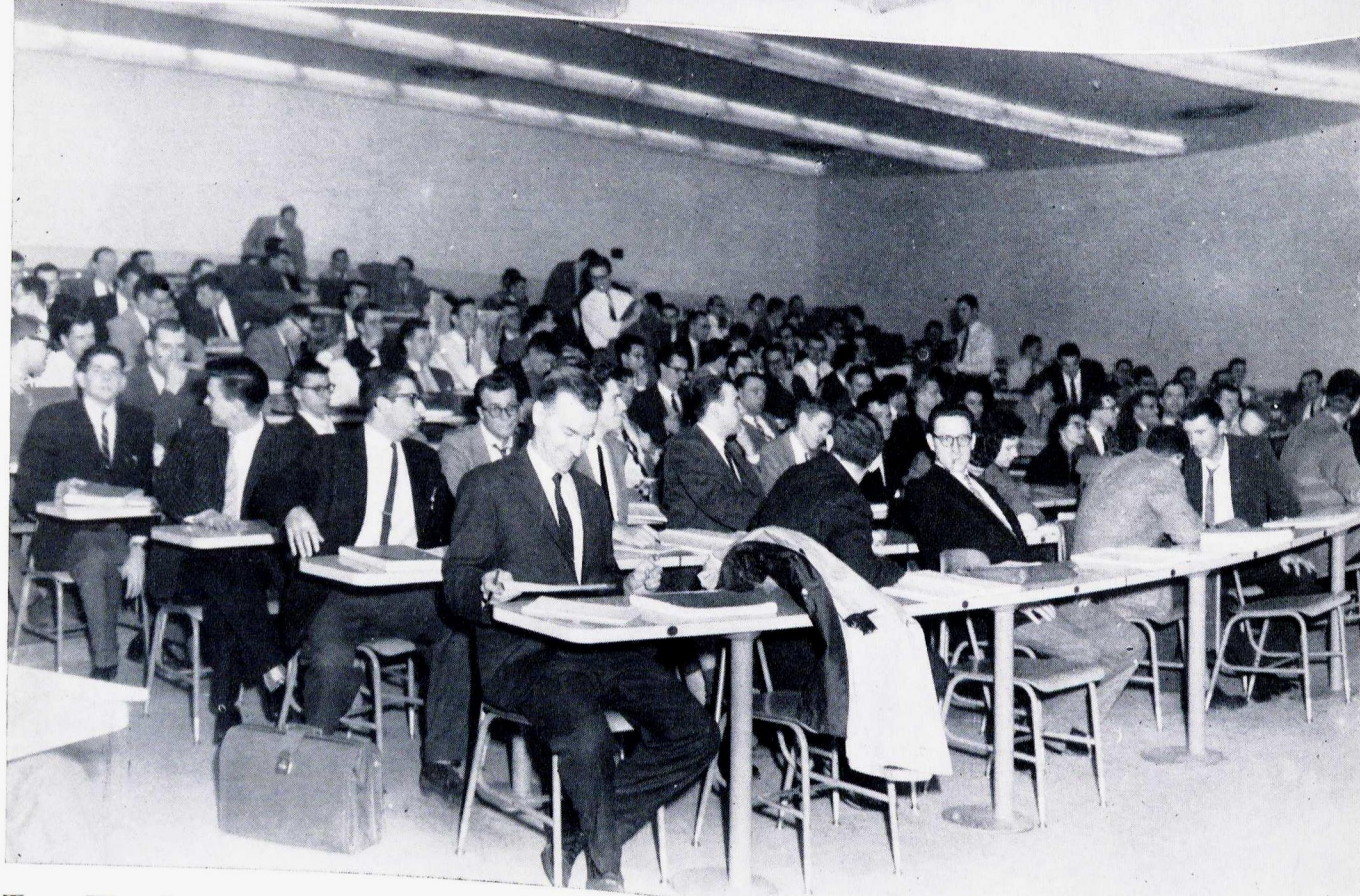

The Progressive Conservative government brought forward a motion to establish a national lottery, which was defeated in the course of the proceedings by a combined Liberal-Independent opposition vote.

The 143-minute debate, sprinkled with dashes of poetry, a cue card holding blonde model, a Cuban uprising in which Fidel and a henchman finally got Little Batiste, and a southern gambler complete with goatee.

Bill Maxwell was awarded the $25 Legal and Lit. prize for the best presentation, and John Richard won a desk and pencil set for the best material.

Judges were the Hon. Robert MacAuley, Q.C., M.P.P., John J. Wintermeyer, Q.C., LL.B., M.P.P., and W. G. C. Howland, Q.C.

Bottom: First Year — Before The Lecturer Arrives

ONCE again this year the Luncheon Committee of the Legal and Lit. provided the student body with an opportunity to sample a variation from the usual cafeteria fare, as well as to hear some of the more interesting and informative of after-luncheon speakers.

The season was opened by Dr. George Schwarzenberger, a distinguished academician in the field of International Law, currently with the faculty of Law at the University of London. Dr. Schwarzenberger also spoke at the school itself later that week.

A reaffirmation of Lord Montgomery's claims as to tactics employed in the Second World War was one of the topics touched on by General Guy Simmonds, a former Chief of Staff of the Canadian Armed Forces. He also startled his audience by informing them that in his view all political movements in Russia are geared toward a world war in 1960.

At one of the luncheons Miss Louella Sturdy, the Registrar of the Law School was honoured with a presentation in recognition of her work on behalf of and in co-operation with Legal and Lit. activities.

Other guests included Robert Winters, a former federal cabinet minister under the St. Laurent government, and now president of Rio Tinto Mining, and Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, of the University of Toronto.

"Typical of the taste of the time are the rose, yellow and blue glass of the rotunda, and the coloured tiles on the floors. The same tiles, in the same incongruous colours, are to be found in University College (1856) by the same architect."

(Below) The American Library. "A very fine room . . . in oak where leather bindings take the place of architectural ornament, and a warm and mellow light comes from a ceiling in coloured glass."

The library, 112' long by 40' wide by 40' to the vaulted ceiling. "Two criticisms may be levelled against the Library. As a reading room it takes the full glare of the sun through frosted glass, and as a library, it was not designed to house books. Oak bookcases . . . cut the great Corinthian pilasters off in their middles, or at their necks in a way that would horrify the Man of Taste."

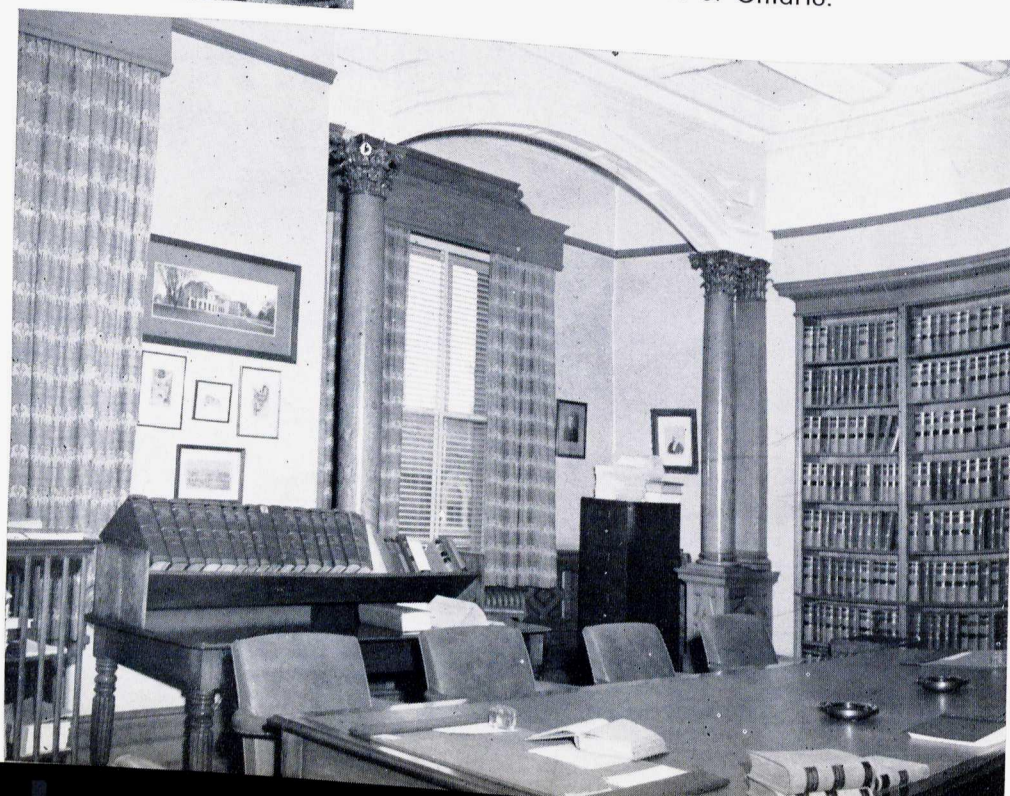

(Top) The Benchers' Dining Room, set for Luncheon. It was described by the American Institute of Architects as "one of the most pleasing examples of the Victorian era that they had seen."
